

Variable Scope

- A namespace is a Container where names are mapped to variables
- A scope defines the hierarchical order in which the namespaces need to be searched in order to obtain the name-to-object mapping
- Scope defined the accessibility and lifetime of a variable

The LEGB rule

The LEGB rule decides the order in which the namespaces are to be searched for variable scoping

Variable scope hierarchy:

1. Built-In (B): Reserved names in Python
2. Global Variable (G): Defined at the uppermost level
3. Enclosed (E): Defined inside enclosing or nested functions
4. Local Variable (L): Defined inside a function

```
In [1]: def outer():
        # a = 15 # enclosed scope
        def inner():
            # a = 20 # local variable
            print(a) inner() a = 10 # global outer()
```

10

```
In [2]: from math import pi # built-in scope def outer():
            pi = 15 # enclosed scope
            def inner():
                # pi = 20 # local variable
                print("inner func", pi) inner()
        # pi = 10 # global outer()
        print("main", pi)
```

Lambda Function

- A lambda function is also called as an anonymous function as it is a function that is defined without a name.

- A lambda function behaves similar to a standard function except it is defined in one-line.
- It is defined using a lambda key-word.
- Lambda functions can have any number of arguments but only one expression. The expression is evaluated and returned.
- Lambda functions can be used wherever function objects are required.
- Syntax of Lambda Function – lambda parameters : expression

Write a lambda function to return addition of 2 numbers

```
In [ ]: add = lambda x, y : x + y
```

Write a lambda function to return square of the number

```
In [ ]:
```

Function Object

- Everything in Python is an object, including functions.
- You can assign them to variables, store them in data structures, and pass or return them to and from other functions
- Functions in Python can be passed as arguments to other functions, assigned to variables or even stored as elements in various data structures.

function definition/implemenation

```
In [3]: def func(a, b): # -> function definition
        if a < b :
            return a else:
            return b
```

function call

```
In [5]: # function call var = func(2, 3)
        var
```

```
Out[5]: 2
```

```
In [6]: # function object var = func
var
```

```
Out[6]: <function __main__.func(a, b)>
```

Applications of Function Object

Ex. WAP to sort a list of strings as per the last character.

```
In [ ]: lst = ["flight", "car", "train", "bike"] sorted(lst) # sorts alphabetically
```

```
In [ ]: # sort by number of characters in the list sorted(lst, key = len)
```

```
In [ ]: sorted(lst, key = lambda strg : strg[-1])
```

Note -

- There are many functions like sorted which take function object as an argument.
- Use a built-in function if available, else defined a custom function.
- If the logic for custom function is one-liner use lambda function else use standard user-defined function

Ex. Sort thge dict based on values

```
In [7]: employess = {'Jane': 70000, 'Rosie': 90000, 'Mary': 40000, 'Sam': 55000, 'George':
```

```
In [14]: dict(sorted(employess.items()))
```

```
Out[14]: {'George': 76000, 'Jane': 70000, 'Mary': 40000, 'Rosie': 90000, 'Sam': 55000}

```
In [10]: tup = (1, 4, 3, 2, 5)
tuple(sorted(tup))
```

```
Out[10]: (1, 2, 3, 4, 5)
```

```
In [15]: dict(sorted(employess.items(), key = lambda tup : tup[1]))
```

```
Out[15]: {'Mary': 40000, 'Sam': 55000, 'Jane': 70000, 'George': 76000, 'Rosie': 90000}

```
In [18]: for tup in employess.items() :
          print(tup[1])
```

```
70000 90000 40000 55000 76000

map() - filter() - reduce() map()-filter() vs Comprehension

- Comprehension are much faster and lighter than map() filter()
- Comprehension provides expression and filter condition in same syntax
- map() provides expression to be applied to elements of sequence
- filter() is used for condition
- When expression is a multi-liner function then map/filter is preferred map(func_obj, sequence)

- func_obj : It is a function object to which map passes each element of given sequence.
- sequence : It is a sequence which is to be mapped.
- Returns a sequence of the results after applying the given function to each item of a given iterable.

Ex. WAP to map the given list to list of squares

```
In [20]: lst = [1, 2, 3, 4]
         tuple(map(lambda x : x  2, lst))
```

```
Out[20]: (1, 4, 9, 16)

filter(func_obj, sequence)

- func_obj : function that tests if each element of a sequence true or not. It should always be a Boolean function.
- sequence : It is a sequence which is to be filtered.
- Returns a sequence of filtered elements.

Ex. WAP to filter all the even numbers from the given list of numbers.

```
In [22]: lst = [1, 2, 3, 4]
         list(filter(lambda x : x % 2 == 0, lst))
```

```
Out[22]: (2, 4)
```

Ex. WAP to extract all digits from a string (using filter)

```
In [24]: strg = "abcd1234"
         list(filter(lambda ch : ch.isdigit(), strg))
```

Out[24]: ['1', '2', '3', '4']
```

```
In [ ]: # str allows many methods to be called as function str.isdigit(ch)
```

```
In [25]: str.replace("abcd", "a", "*")
```

```
Out[25]: '*bcd'

```
In [31]: list(filter(str.isdigit, strg))
```

Out[31]: ['1', '2', '3', '4']
```

Ex. WAP to generate list of square roots of numbers in the tuple

```
In [23]: import math as m tup = (1, 4, 9, 16)

tuple(map(m.sqrt, tup))
```

```
Out[23]: (1.0, 2.0, 3.0, 4.0)
```

```
In [27]: lst = [1, 2, 3, 4]
list.append(lst, 10)
lst
```

```
Out[27]: [1, 2, 3, 4, 10]
```

```
In [28]: help(list.append)
```

Help on method_descriptor:

append(self, object, /) unbound builtins.list method Append object to the end of the list.

reduce(func_obj, seq)

- The reduce(func_obj, seq) function is used to apply a particular function passed in its argument to all of the list elements mentioned in the sequence passed along. This function is defined in "functools" module.

Note: func_obj will always take two parameters

Working :

- At first step, first two elements of sequence are picked and the result is obtained.
- Next step is to apply the same function to the previously attained result and the number just succeeding the second element and the result is again stored.
- This process continues till no more elements are left in the container.
- The final returned result is returned and printed on console.

Ex. Reduce the list to summation of all numbers

```
In [32]: from functools import reduce lst = [1, 2, 3, 4]
reduce(lambda x, y : x + y, lst)
```

Out[32]: 10

```
In [33]: from functools import reduce lst = [1, 2, 3, 4]
reduce(lambda x, y : x + y, lst, 10)
```

Out[33]: 20

Ex. Find sum of squares of numbers in the list using reduce

```
In [40]: lst = [4, 1, 2, 3]
reduce(lambda result, element : result + element2, lst, 0)
```

Out[40]: 30

```
In [35]: 1+4+9+16
```

Out[35]: 30

Additional Examples

Ex. Factorial using reduce

```
In [41]: reduce(lambda x, y : x*y, range(1, 6), 1)
```

Out[41]: 120

Ex. use reduce() to extract sum of all digits in a string

```
In [42]: strg = "abcd1234"
reduce(lambda x, y : x + int(y) if y.isdigit() else 0, strg, 0)
```

Out[42]: 10

Ex. Combine all elements in the list into a single string object.

Capitalize first character of the string while concatenating

```
In [46]: lst = ["tiger", "lion", "horse", "zebra"] # o/p - TigerLionHorseZebra str.join("", lst).title() # no word boundry hence title() will not work
```

Out[46]: 'Tigerlionhorsezebra'

```
In [45]: str.join(" ", lst).title()
```

Out[45]: 'Tiger Lion Horse Zebra'

```
In [48]: str.join("_", lst).title().replace("_", "")
```

Out[48]: 'TigerLionHorseZebra'

```
In [49]: reduce(lambda x, y : x + y.title() , lst, "")
```

Out[49]: 'TigerLionHorseZebra'

Ex. Using map() multiply the two lists

```
In [50]: lst1 = [1, 2, 3, 4]
lst2 = [10, 20, 30, 40]
list(map(lambda x, y : x*y, lst1, lst2))
```

Out[50]: [10, 40, 90, 160]

Ex. Fibonacci series using reduce.

Exception Handling

It may be convenient to recognize the problems in your python code before you put it to real use. But that does not always happen. Sometimes, problems show up when you run the code; sometimes, midway of that. A Python exception is an error that's detected during execution.

Python does not provide any compile time Exception Handling. Developer has to proactively recognize the need for exception handling.

- What are Errors and Exceptions
- Handling Exceptions
- Defining Clean-up Actions
- Predefined Clean-up Actions
- Raising Exceptions

Syntax Error

```
In [ ]: for i in range(5)
        print(i)
```

Exception

Even if a statement or expression is syntactically correct, it may cause an error when an attempt is made to execute it. Errors detected during execution are called exceptions and are not unconditionally fatal

ZeroDivisionError

```

Object Oriented Programming

- Object-oriented programming is a programming methodology that provides a means of structuring programs so that properties and behaviors are encapsulated into individual objects.

- For instance, an object could represent a person with properties like a name, age, and address and behaviors such as walking, talking, breathing, and running. Or it could represent an email with properties like a recipient list, subject, and body and behaviors like adding attachments and sending.

Define a Class in Python

- A class definition starts with the `class` keyword, which is followed by the name of the class and a colon.
- Any code that is indented below the class definition is considered part of the class's body.
- The attributes that objects must have are defined in a `__init__()` . It is called as Constructor of the class.
- Every time a new object is created, `__init__()` sets the initial state of the object by assigning the values of the object's properties.
- `__init__()` initializes each new instance of the class.
- Attributes created in `__init__()` are called instance attributes. An instance attribute's value is specific to a particular instance of the class.
- Instance attributes are always referred using `self` .
- Instance methods are functions that are defined inside a class and can only be called from an instance of that class.
- A class attribute is always defined outside the constructor and always referred using class name.

Example - Customer dataset using Customer Object

Read data from the file

In [124...

```
file = open("customers.txt") data = file.readlines() file.close()
```

Clean data as list of customer objects

Approach 1 - Assign the attributes as the time of object creation

- can be used when you have to encapsulate data as a single object instead of a list or tuple

In [127...

```
class Customer : pass

Function
def clean_data(strg) :
    lst = strg.strip().split(",")
    cust = Customer()

    cust.c_id = lst[0]
    cust.name = lst[1] + " " + lst[2] cust.age = int(lst[3])
    cust.profession = lst[4] return cust

customers = list(map(clean_data, data))
print(customers[0:3])
print("Name of second customer - ", customers[1].name)
```

```
[<__main__.Customer object at 0x00000254ACA6BB00>, <__main__.Customer object at 0x00000254ACD08F50>, <__main__.Customer object at 0x00000254AD979370>]
```

```
Name of second customer - Paige Chen
```

Approach - 2 - Defining all customer attributes in the customer class

In [156...

```
class Customer : # class definition

    def __init__(self, c_id, fname, lname, age, prof) : # Parametrised Constructor # Instance variables
        self.c_id = c_id self.name = fname + " " + lname self.age = int(age)
        self.profession = prof

    # methods
    def customer_str(self) :
        return f"{self.c_id} | {self.name} | {self.age} | {self.profession}"

    # Overriding default methods
    def __repr__(self) :
        return f"{self.name} | {self.age}"

    def __str__(self) :
        return self.name

    def __lt__(self, obj) :
        return self.age < obj.age

Function
def clean_data(strg) :
    lst = strg.strip().split(",")
    return Customer(*lst)

customers = list(map(clean_data, data))
print(customers[0:3])
print("Name of second customer - ", customers[1])
```

[Kristina Chung | 55, Paige Chen | 74, Sherri Melton | 34]
Name of second customer - Paige Chen

```
In [149... print(customers[0]) # calls __str__() if not present call __repr__()
```

Kristina Chung

```
In [150... customers[0] # calls __repr__()
```

```
Out[150... Kristina Chung | 55
```

Ex. Extract Pilots from the dataset

```
In [157... pilots = list(filter(lambda cust : cust.profession == "Pilot", customers))
len(pilots)
```

```
Out[157... 209
```

Ex. Sort the customers by age

```
In [ ]: sorted(customers, key = lambda cust : cust.age)
```

```
In [ ]: sorted(customers)
```

Ex. Write pilots data to a file

```
In [158... with open("customer_details.txt", "w") as file :
    for cust in pilots :
        file.write(cust.customer_str())
```

Inheritance

- Inheritance allows us to define a class that inherits all the methods and properties from another class.
- Parent class is the class being inherited from, also called base class.
- Child class is the class that inherits from another class, also called derived class.

Ex. Create parent class `Shape` and `Circle`, `Rectangle`, `Triangle` as its child classes.

```
In [ ]:
```

Ex. Define `cal_area()` as abstract method in `Shape` class.

```
In [ ]:
```

Ex. Override `cal_area()` in all child classes of `Shape` class.

```
In [ ]:
```

Ex. Define `color_cost()` method in Shape class. Define `kwargs` in constructor of all child classes to set shape color at the time of object creation.
